DETAILED ACTION

Amendment

1. Receipt is acknowledged of the amendment filed on April 18, 2006. Currently, claims 1-
5 38 remain in the examination.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

10 A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –
 (b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

15 3. Claims 1-21, 23, 24, 26-31, and 33-38 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Graef et al. (US 4,664,369, previously cited, hereinafter “Graef”).

Re claims 1-4, 8-12, 17, 18, 20, 21, 23, 24, 30, 31, and 33-38, Graef teaches a thickness indicator apparatus used in Automated Teller Machine (ATM) (see abstract; col. 2, lines 27+) for detecting double bills when the bills are retrieved from the stack (col. 1, lines 34+; col. 3, lines 20 58+; col. 6, lines 4+). . The thickness detector is comprised of two elongated fingers 50 (or free ends) attached to a wishbone 45 (col. 4, lines 16+; see figure 3). When bills move between the plate 42 and the elongated fingers 50, the elongated fingers are displaced/pushed by the thickness of the bill (col. 4, line 51 – col. 5, line 37).

Re claim 5, the bill moving path further comprised of a roller 12 and a counter rotating roller 36 (col. 3, lines 36+; col. 3, lines 60+). In case of the bill correctly under the wishbone 45 (figure 12), the wishbone – inductive element is uniformly separated/displaced.

Re claim 6, the thickness of the bill causes wishbone 45 to rotate about the pin 58 in 5 counter clockwise direction (col. 5, lines 9+). Accordingly, the pin is considered a rotational axis.

Re claims 7, 13, 15, and 16, as bills pass between the plate 40 and elongated finger, the target 52 rotates toward the proximity sensor 66 (col. 4, lines 39+), and the sensor generates a voltage signal proportional to the distance between the sensor 66 and the target 52 in inductive 10 manner.

Re claim 14, as shown in figure 1, the elongated finger 50 is connected to a spring-loaded locking means 64 (col. 4, lines 28-38).

Re claims 19 and 26-29, as shown in figure 3, the apparatus is comprised of a housing/frame 15 which houses a bill thickness detecting component (see figure 3; col. 3, lines 15 36+).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

20 (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 22, 25, and 32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Graef et al. (US 4,664,369, previously cited).

Although Graef does not explicitly suggests the details of the housing as they are recited in the above-mentioned claims (snap-in bearings and grounding elements comprising braided wire and metal lugs), it is the Examiner's view that Graef shows a box-type of housing which is substantially the same housing Applicant claims.

Response to Arguments

10 6. Applicant's arguments filed on April 18, 2006 have been carefully reviewed and considered, but they are not persuasive.

"Maintain a uniform separation" is disclosed in figure 12 where the both prongs of the wishbone is displaced equally/uniformly by the currency. Granted that the separation between the sensor and the target varies according to a number of bills passing under the fingers of the 15 wishbone, however, the Examiner was unable to find "uniform separation" Applicant claims in the specification, which Applicant claims distinguishable over the Graef patent. The instant application, on many occasions, refers "double-detect mechanism" (see US 2004/0099725 A1, Paragraphs 0042, 0043, and thereafter). One can imagine, without undue experimentation, that a number of bills going under the fingers 80 and 82 can vary. For example, in case where more 20 than two sheets are passing under the fingers, it is hard to fathom that such case would not be detected as "double." Actual displacement of the fingers in such case would be more than "double" even if they are considered "double."

Applicant's arguments have been carefully reviewed and considered, but it is the Examiner's opinion that the Graef patent discloses and suggests the subject matter claimed in the instant application. Therefore, the Examiner has made this Office Action final.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, 10 however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
